A very valuable MERCHANT MILL,

A DISTILLERY and BREWERY, and ſundry STONE QUARRIES to be let

I will rent my merchant Mill at the little Falls of Potowmac, for any term not leſs than ſeven, nor more than eleven years, from the firſt day of September next. The mill-houſe is 42 by 40 feet, three ſtories high, built with ſtone, and has in it three pairs of French Burr Stones, two overſhot 18 feet water-wheels, and Evans's machinery complete, with every other thing proper and neceſſary for carrying on the buſineſs with diſpatch, and at as little expenſe as poſſible, all in good order.—From the mill to my landing on the Potomac river, (where craft, of any burthen may deliver grain and take in flour) it is about 40 yards, and from thence by water to George-Town and the City of Waſhington, about 3 miles, and to Alexandria about 11 miles. This ſituation, aided by a ſufficient capital, will command the produce of a very extenſive back country, where large quantities of wheat and other grain is annually made, the diſtance to it being from 8 to 10 miles leſs than to any market town upon the navigation of the Potowmac. There are on the premiſes a large ſtone Coopers' ſhop, a ſtone granary, and a commodious miller's houſe. At the landing aforeſaid a bridge is now building over the Potomac, which is in great forwardneſs and probably will be finiſhed the enſuing fall.

There are alſo on the premiſes, a Brewery and Diſtillery, built with ſtone, in them are three ſtills, two coppers or boilers, with every neceſſary article, all new, and in good order, and ſufficiently large to carry on the Brewery and Diſtillery upon a very extenſive plan. This property I will rent for the ſame term of years.

Upon my lands adjoining the premiſes, and along the banks of the river, where craft may load with eaſe and diſpatch, is an immenſe quantity of building and foundation-ſtones. Four quarries are now open, and as many more may be opened with eaſe: the ſtone taken from theſe quarries is better, and has the preference at this market, to any other ſtone brought to it. I will rent theſe quarries ſeparately or together as may beſt ſuit.

On the top of the hill, and about 200 yards from the mill, is a ſtone Dwelling-houſe, large enough for the accommodation of a family: alſo, a kitchen, dairy, ſmoke-houſe, &c. and a garden, encloſed and in cultivation, the ſoil of which is equal in goodneſs to any in this ſtate. I will alſo rent this property.

Adjoining to the Brewery and Diſtillery is a Smith's ſhop, in which is a complete ſet of Blackſmith's tools, which I will alſo rent, and if agreeable I will hire to the tenant two negro blackſmiths, one of them is a complete workman.

If I rent out the ſtone quarries, I will ſell three crafts, which were built for the purpoſe of carrying ſtone: they will altogether bring upwards of 90 perch. Immediate poſſeſſion will be given. For terms apply to the ſubſcriber in this town.

The Mill, Brewery and Diſtillery, with their appurtenances, will be delivered to the tenant or tenants in good repair, and muſt be ſo returned, at the expiration of the leaſe or leaſes.

S. VERGES, C. S.

THE publisher thinks it a mark of respect, due to a liberal and enlightened public, to inform them that this is the Poem for the publishing of which he has been twice dragged from his house, and is now laboring under a vexatious prosecution. He is conscious that the piece contains nothing either criminal or offensive, unless original wit, decorated in elegant language, be criminal or disgusting to the prevalent taste; and, as he trusts that neither of these is the case, he submits the work to the public with a full assurance of its meeting with a favorable reception.

He would beg his prosecutors to call to mind (if they have ever read it) the following apologue to a well known romance—"A young painter, indulging a vein of pleasantry, sketched a kind of Conversation Piece, respecting a bear, an owl, a monkey, and an ass; and to render it more striking, humourous, and moral, distinguished every figure by some emblem of human life. Bruin was exhibited in the garb and attitude of an old, toothless, drunken soldier; the owl perched upon the handle of a coffee-pot, with spectacles on his nose, seemed to contemplate a newspaper; and the ass ornamented with a huge tye-wig (which, however, could not conceal his long ears) sat for his picture to the monkey, who appeared with the implements of painting. This whimsical group afforded some mirth, and met with general approbation, until some mischievous wag hinted the whole was a lampoon upon an old officer, a physician, and a member of Parliament; an insinuation which was no sooner circulated, than these people began to be alarmed, and even to fancy themselves signified by the several figures in the piece. The farmer group fell upon the painter, who denied that he had no design to give offence, or to characterise particular persons. They affirmed, the resemblance palpable to be overlooked,—and their clamours being joined by the public, the Captain was a bear, the Parson an ass, and the Senator an owl, to their dying day. If a similar fate should attend the persons who shall compose the members of this group, the author owes to the publisher the justice to remember that he is not of his.

FOR THE GAZETTE OF THE UNITED STATES.

MR. FENNO,

Some observations in your paper shew an extreme restlessness under certain paragraphs of letters from England respecting the conduct of the House of Representatives as to the British treaty. It is a surprizing thing no doubt that we do not find in the English prints any threats of war such as were held up as scare-crows to the multitude—but on the contrary, applauses of the firmness with which the opponents of the treaty insisted that our wrongs should be redressed before we entered into compact with so faithless a government.

That the opposers of the treaty in Congress did not mean to set it aside is evident to all who are impartial—from Mr. Maclay's proposition—which was not to REJECT but to SUSPEND the execution of the treaty until we had assurances that our ships and seamen should be safe in future, and surely the events of the day fully prove the necessity of this, for the treaty has made no change whatever in the state of the commerce of the United States—our seamen are still beat and insulted—our ships are still taken and condemned, the accumulated losses of which threaten our insurance companies, our banks and all our trading people.

But if there be any crime in opposing treaties when discussed in the legislative body, what shall we say to Peter Porcupine the champion of a certain party, who declares his firm opposition to another treaty made a number of years ago, of which speaking he has this sagacious remark. "By the treaty "made between this country and the King of "France, the French nation is in my opinion no "more the ally of the United States than the Chi-"nese are." Is there not an effort here to set aside the French treaty in defiance of the government of the Union, how can this be reconciled by the so much famed friends of order, except that a treaty is one thing when made with one nation—but quite a different thing when concluded with another? There is however one discovery made by your correspondent the merit of which is all his own—he says our fears were not of Britain declaring war against us—but unless she would consent to do us justice we must have declared war against her. I believe even the Serjeant-Major will smile at this—she do us justice! Is it justice to take our ships with coffee going to Amsterdam as soon as they are out of our ports and carry them into Halifax—Is it justice to tie up capt. Jessup and miserably lacerate and mangle the body of our citizen—Is it justice to take our vessels from the West Indies and query whether we have a right to carry sugar at all by treaty. Is it justice to change the Governor in Bermuda and retain the infamous judge. In a word what is the justice Britain hath been accustomed to administer to us during the last twenty years, and yet where are the thunder bolts or where the danger they are in of war from us?

CONTINUATION OF Foreign Intelligence.

Received by the Hamburgh Packet, Capt. Clay, from Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, June 30.

This day a party of upwards of forty stout fellows, lately belonging to the Dutch frigate, bro't into Greenock, marched through this city in their way to Chatham barracks, to join Colonel French's new-regiment of Caledonian rangers. They are remarkable well looking young men, and are said to have been most of them soldiers under the old government.

They were enlisted by Capt. Collins, of the above corps, who provided them with a pair of beautiful colours.

ISLAND OF CEYLON.

The fertility and beauty of this land is never spoken of by the Indians, but in terms of rapture—they call it the Paradise of the World—and the ancients called it "Tarmarasin," that is, the garden of pleasure. Its air, pure and salubrious, causes a perpetual cheerfulness in the minds of the people, who are called Cinglasses, a sprightly, active and ingenious race of men; their persons are well shaped, and of regular engaging features, with complexions inclining to the olive and copper colours. The gracefulness and urbanity of their manners, like all other Indians, is proverbial; and if they are not so enlightened as the Europeans, it is from the oppression they suffered under the Dutch, and not from any natural defect of intellect. The women are extremely cleanly, and tho' they cannot boast a fair complexion, like the beauties of our own island, yet the deficiency is well supplied by such elegance of person, and insinuating address, that it is impossible not to love them.

LEGHORN, June 3.

Intelligence has been received from Toulon, that 10 sail of French men of war are stationed in a line at the mouth of that harbor, to watch the English squadron still cruizing off that port.

ELSINEUR, June 21.
Extract of a letter.

"His Majesty's ship Leander, which with another vessel had got on shore for want of a pilot, arrived here in safety on the 18th in the evening. The Leander got off, by first shifting her guns aft, and afterwards removing them on board the Zephyr, Anderson. The Swan sloop of war arrived the same evening.

"There is a fleet of 60 sail of merchantmen now collected, and they will sail as soon as the wind serves, which there is every probability will be soon. There are many of the enemy's cruisers in the North Seas; but I hope his Majesty's ships will keep a good look out, and that the convoy will arrive in safety.

"P. S. The wind is now fair, and the convoy is this moment getting under weigh."

BREST, Prairial 28.

Extract of an official letter to the Minister of Marine.

"The division, commanded by citizen Moulston, has taken the English ship the Royal Oak, whose cargo consists of articles much wanted in this part."

DINAN, 20th Prairial.

The English have made a new attempt upon the coasts of Normandy. We are assured that they have even landed 1,800 emigrants at a small distance from Avranches, that troops have been marched to the place of debarkation, and that already they have had some bloody skirmishes.

On the 19th they add, that an English squadron composed of nine ships of war of different sizes, appeared before St. Maloes, and advanced even to the mouth of the road; next day it had moved near the gun-ports of a fort called Lavarde, which defends the approaches to St. Maloes on the side of Cancalle.—(Perlet.)

LONDON, July 2.

STOCKS experienced a considerable fall yesterday, in consequence of the intelligence received from Germany in the morning; the monied men concluding that Austrian successes can have no other tendency than to prolong the disadvantages of the war, and render the benefit and blessings of peace more distant than ever.

A letter from Berlin of the 20th ult. states, that the Prussian troops, who constitute the greatest part of the army which is to protect the North of Germany, have put themselves in motion on the 16th inst. on their march to the Weser.

The brother of General Buonaparte lately reconnoitring the Citadel of Mantua, was surprised, and nearly carried of by some Croats from the garrison; But some French Hussars coming up, they rescued him.

A General Election has been sometimes called the British Saturnalia; it resembles this Roman Festival in more things than one; during its continuance all ranks are levelled, and the conclusion renders the equality more permanent by the Aristocratic Candidate's estate coming under the hammer of the auctioneer, and being purchased by some of his Plebeian Constituents.

M. Pache, formerly Mayor of Paris, mentioned upon the authority of the Ministerial papers as having been taken up in this country turns out to be a M. Le Page from St. Domingo, member of the Constituent Assembly. Upon discovering the mistake he was immediately set at liberty.

Mr. Gibbon in his History, says, that the time was when the Pope could trim up all the Parsons in Europe, so as to make every pulpit in Christendom resound with the same air, like the leader of an orchestra. The time, however, was now passed away, "like a tale told by an ideot!"—It is literally forgotten.

We lay before our readers the last communication from Mr. Barthelemi to the state of Basle, dated 15 Prairial, June 2.

"Mighty Lords,

"From authentic intelligence it appears, that the army under the command of Conde are on their march towards your frontiers, to resume the position they occupied the last campaign. I cannot, Mighty Lords, refrain from calling your attention to the avowed object of that corps of Emigrants, and admonishing you to devise the most effectual means for the maintenance of the neutrality of your territory, and to repel any aggression that may be made upon it.

"I have reason to believe, that the measures you have already concerted with the confederate States for this purpose, together with the reinforcements composed of the Helvetic contingents, cannot fail to give the Executive Directory of the French Republic the utmost confidence in the most scrupulous observance of the duties as a neutral country.

"You will not I hope, mighty Lords, mistake the interference of the French government, when, in conformity to my instructions. I again solicit your attention respecting Conde's army. The only object I have in view on the present occasion is, to preserve the tranquility of your Canton, and an earnest desire to avert from your frontiers, and all the co-estates those calamities which to me appear the necessary consequence of neglect and the want of a clear understanding at the present moment.

"The proper dispositions have been made by our generals, all possible precautions taken on the confines of France to repel any aggression that may be made by the enemy, after traversing your territories, and should this band of Emigrants have the temerity, if despair itself should drive them to so forlorn an expedient, as to advance with arms in their hands to the very bosom of the French nation, they cannot by any possibility escape destruction. May God preserve you, &c.

(Signed) "BARTHELEMI."

In a few days after the receipt of the above letter, M. Ochs, Burgomaster of the state of Basle, set out for Paris.

FRENCH REPUBLIC.
STATE PAPER.

The SPEECH of M. VERNINAC, upon the delivery of his Credentials to the Grand Seignior on the 26th ult.

"I transmit to your Highness the evidence of the friendship of a faithful alliance with the Otto man Porte. This amity which originated in a wise system since the time of the great Solyman, confirmed by many happy connections for three centuries past, and increased under imperious circumstances, is a genuine national sentiment, which, in consequence of the liberty it enjoys at present, will in future extend the circle of its operations beyond the narrow limits of a simple wish, by the display of its full powers in the face of all Europe.

"The French Republic does not conceal her inclinations—and the successful valour with which she combats her enemies, inspire her with confidence in speaking of her friendship.

"I can now with propriety assure you, that the time is past when the rumour of events passing from the shore of the Bosphorous, the Dniester, and the Danube, would expire upon the Seine, in a broken and unregarded echo.

"With the happiness of the Republic, in union with the Ottoman Empire, she wishes it may always be governed by such a Prince as your Highness. It is with pleasure she beholds you surrounded with wise ministers; while in the bloom of life, you are only occupied in affairs of the highest importance without once losing sight of the happiness and glory of your people. May your virtues and their auspicious consequences ever follow you as your merited reward; and may the great hopes with which you have inspired the Republic never prove fruitless. Receive this wish of the French Envoy as a pledge of his particular respect and his devotion to your highness."

This speech and its answer by the Grand Visir, was interpreted by Dragomans: and to the splendid habit of M. Verninac, the tri-coloured ribband as a scarf, and a cluster of diamonds in his hat, were additional ornaments. The French troops that followed the procession with shouldered arms, landed from frigates in the harbor, were attended through the streets, by military music, and went as far as the second court of the Seraglio with the Envoy.

ARMY OF THE COAST OF THE OCEAN.
Res non Verba.

Head-Quarters, Rennes, 15 Prairial,
June 13—4th year.

"In hope of defeating the effect of the vigilance we exercise, imposing on the good faith which animates us, and obtaining rather a delay favourable to his perfidious designs, or more advantageous conditions, the individual named Puisaye, calling himself commander in chief of the pretended Catholic army has made, by his agents to several General Officers of the army, various insignificant and insidious demands and propositions, tending to commit them in the eyes of the Government. The Commander in Chief, who has for a long time known and disconcerted the atrocious plots of this agent of England, warns his brothers in arms to be on their guard, and to follow with precision what is pointed out to them in the orders of 17th and 18th current. He at the same time recommends to them the greatest activity; and the literal execution of the mandate of the Executive Directory, on the subject of the disarming of the inhabitants.

PARIS, July 2.

Head Quarters at Bologna, June 23.

Buonaparte, Commander in Chief of the Army in Italy, to the Executive Directory.

General Angereau's division, Citizen Directors, passed the Po at Borgoforto, on the 16th of June; on the 10th I arrived at Modena, whence I sent orders, by Adjutant-General Vignole, to the garrison of the Castle of Urbino, to lay down their arms, and to surrender themselves prisoners of war. I continued my rout to Bologna, where I arrived at midnight. We found in the Fort of Urbino 50 pieces of cannon in excellent order, 500 fusees, and provisions for 600 men for two months. Fort Urbino is in an excellent state of defence; it is surrounded by walls well provided with bastions, a ditch full of water, and a covered way newly repaired. It was commanded by a Knight of Malta, and the garrison consisted of 300 men, whom we have made prisoners.

At Bologna we took the Cardinal Legate, with all the officers of the staff, and four standards. We have also taken the Cardinal Legate of Ferrara, with the commandant of the Fort of Ferrara, who is a Knight of Malta. In the Castle of Ferrara there are 114 pieces of cannon.

The Artillery we have taken will enable us to form the siege of Mantua.

The twenty pictures with which Parma was to supply us are sent off. The celebrated picture of St. Jerome is so much esteemed in this country, that they offered us a million for it.

Some pictures from Modena are also sent off. Citizen Barthelemi is at present employed in making a selection of the pictures at Bologna. He intends to take 50 of them, among which is the St. Cecilia, which is said to be the chef d'œuvre of Michael Angelo.

Monge, Berthollet and Thouvenot, at Pavia, employed in enriching our Botanic Garden, and our Cabinet of Natural History. I imagine they will not forget a complete collection of Serpents, which alone appeared to me sufficient to compensate for the trouble of the journey. I expect they will be at Bologna the day after to-morrow, where they will also find a plentiful harvest.

At Milan I saw the celebrated Oriani; the first audience he had of me, he was so confused that he could not answer any question I put to him. When he recovered from his astonishment, he said, "pardon me, but this is the first time I have been in these superb apartments, my eyes are not accustomed." He was not aware that by these few words he uttered a severe criticism on the Archduke's Government. I hastened to pay him his salary, and gave him every necessary encouragement.

By the first courier, I shall send you the letters I wrote to him, the moment I received the recommendation which you sent me for him.

Tranquility is restored to this city. Pillage has ceased. It must be allowed that it is almost a miracle, for the government were on the point of seeing a part of those very men, whose duty it is to suppress sedition, join the insurgents. Will people be convinced at length that there can be no adequate security for property in a great town like this the center of all the factious, and of every species of seduction, until its defence, at least in part, shall be entrusted to those who are most interested in securing it against all attack.

The following are the conditions of a ſuſpenſion of hoſtilities, which has been agreed upon between Gen. Buonaparte and Prince Belmonte Pignattelli, envoy from the Court of Naples to the Court of Madrid.

Art. I. All hoſtilities ſhall ceaſe between the troops of the French Republic and thoſe of the King of Naples, on the day on which the following articles ſhall be executed, until ten days after the official annunciation of the concluſion of the negociation for peace, which ſhall be opened between the reſpective plenipotentiaries, at a place to be appointed by the executive directory.

II. The body of Neapolitan troops now acting with thoſe of the Emperor, ſhall be withdrawn, and cantoned in the places hereafter ſpecified.

III. This Corps being compriſed in the ſuſpenſion of arms, ſhall go into cantonments in the Venetian territory of Breſcia, Crema and Bergamo.

IV. The ſaid ſuſpenſion of arms ſhall extend to the fleets of the two powers; and meanwhile, the ſhips of the King of Naples ſhall be withdrawn, as ſoon as poſſible, from the Engliſh fleet.

V. A free paſſage, as well through the French territories, as through the country occupied by the French troops, and through the Neapolitan dominions, ſhall be granted to the Couriers of both powers.

Extract of a letter from Wetzlar, June 17.

Herewith you will receive ſome details of the battles fought, on the 14th, 15th and 16th, near our city, and at Altemberg.

On the 14th there were only ſkirmiſhes, without any formal attack; yet the French were repulſed from Wehrdorf, Berghauſen, Dillheim and Ketzenfont; all thoſe places ſuffered greatly by their retreat.

On the 15th, affairs began to wear a more ſerious aſpect. The French informed of the reinforcements, arrived for the Imperialiſts on the Lahn and Dill, intended to force the centre of the Imperialiſts, which expedition Gen. Le Febvre undertook, with 25,000 men. He is the ſame who commanded the expedition of laſt year in this quarter, and is perfectly acquainted with the country. On the 15th in the forenoon, he attacked the Imperialiſts at Berghauſen, Wehrdorf, and puſhed his forces forwards through the woods near thoſe places. The Auſtrian Grenadiers, the regiment of Huſſars, Veczay, and the Saxon Chaſſeurs, juſt arrived, attacked the enemy; but the French annoyed theſe troops conſiderably, by maſked batteries erected from Leun to Altenſtetten, firing grape ſhot, where by the Saxon Chaſſeurs ſuffered ſeverely. Field Marſhal, Lieutenant de Werneck advanced with the remainder of his troops, poſted behind our city; the cannonade became frightful, the Imperialiſts on ſeveral points were obliged to give way, the rain and weather not being in their favour. We lived in anxiety, and a retreat appeared to be unavoidable; ſo matters ſtood at 7 in the evening, when unexpectedly and like a ſaviour from Heaven, arrived the Archduke Charles, and haſtened in full gallop to the field of battle. During the moſt terrible fire of grape-ſhot, he rode through the ranks and encouraged the troops, by aſſuring them that reinforcements were drawing near. The Imperialiſts now perſevered with unexampled bravery. A few moments paſt Imperial troops arrived from Weilmuenſter and Nuemheim, filing off to Konigſberg. At the ſame time the brave Saxon troops marched by Reechtenbach to the field of battle, and more cannon arrived, which the Imperialiſts ſtood in need of. Now they attempted to decoy the enemy from his woods; but in vain. Then the Imperialiſts erected two batteries in oppoſition, and commenced a violent canonade. The Imperial and Saxon cavalry turned the woods, the infantry charged the batteries with bayonets and ſtormed the cavalry ranged in the woods, when the French were obliged to retire; and by 10 at night victory decided for the Auſtrians. On both ſides many were killed and wounded. The grape-ſhot did great execution among the Imperialiſts. The Saxons performed prodigies of valor, and to them the victory is principally owing. Many priſoners are not brought in yet, amongſt them is a colonel of cavalry wounded. Twelve cannon were taken. A lieutenant of the Saxon chaſſeurs, the firſt who penetrated in the woods, was taken priſoner, and was found afterwards with his throat cut.

Yeſterday the 16th the attack was renewed and the French driven from Leun, Stockhouſe, and Weilbourgh. The huſſars of Blankenſtein croſſed the Lahn near Overbuehl, made many priſoners, and took a cannon.

General Lefebvre had his hand cut off by a Saxon horſeman, and his brother was killed by the muſquetry.

The priſoners from Jourdan's aſſure us, that they were promiſed to plunder Frankfort, if they could penetrate to that place. This at firſt occaſioned great alarm amongſt the inhabitants. Thus Wetzlar, Franckfort and their environs were ſaved.

It was neceſſary to haſten the arrival of 9,000 Saxons, by an expreſs; the Archduke led them himſelf to the battle.

From Dillenburg the huſſars brought in yeſterday a French commiſſary and ſeven chaſſeurs, upon whom they found 200 louis d'ors.

This day the whole Imperial army paſſes the Lahn in purſuit of the enemy, the loſs of which is ſaid to be 3000 men.

FRANCKFORT, June 18.

This day we are informed that the Auſtrians after the moſt obſtinate reſiſtance overthrew the left wing when upwards of 1000 priſoners were taken, the left wing having already recroſſed the Rhine at Neuwied.

NEW-YORK, Auguſt 27.

Extract of a letter from Capt. James Neill, of the brig Mary Ann, dated Cadiz, July 12, 1796, to his owners in New-York, received per ſhip Factor, Capt. Kemp, juſt arrived from thence.

"Thank GOD, I am here! for I had a very fortunate eſcape from two Algerines I fell in with, off Cape Palos, coming down from Barceloha. They endeavored to board me, knowing well what I was, by ſhewing my colors, as alſo by ſpeaking a Spaniſh ſhip which was at Salon along with me; but luckily I was near the land, and I got under one of the towers and let go my anchor, which protected me. When the Algerines found I was thus ſituated, they fired a gun to windward and made ſail to the weſtward.—I conſidered it would be imprudent and dangerous immediately to follow them, ſo I put into the port of Carthagena, which detained me ſix days.

"I ſhall not be ſurpriſed to hear in a few days, of many of our veſſels being captured and carried into Algiers—there are ſeveral of them in the Mediterranean, and our truce expired on the 6th inſt. and no hopes of its renewal, or any other favorable circumſtance taking place. There is great talk of war commencing between Great-Britain and Spain ſhortly, which I believe will be the caſe. All the Engliſh veſſels that are in this port at preſent, are ordered to Gibraltar, and they are to ſail from hence to-morrow, at all events."

When Capt. Kemp, of the Factor, left Cadiz, ſeven French ſhips of the line and three frigates lay in that port. About 50 ſail of Spaniſh ſhips of war, many of them of the line, were alſo lying there, making preparation for war, which they daily expected. The Engliſh merchant ſhips had been ordered by the Governor of Gibraltar to quit Cadiz—they accordingly ſailed for the port of Gibraltar under convoy of an Engliſh frigate: Capt. Kemp ſailed out in company with them. Adm. Richery was ſtill blockaded in the port of Cadiz. Dull market for produce—flour 10 to 12 dollars, beef 18, pork 20 to 21.

By a Halifax paper of Auguſt 11th, we learn that the Britiſh ſhip Active, having on board Lord Dorcheſter and family, was caſt away on the Iſland of Anticoſti. The fate of his lordſhip is not mentioned.

FOR SALE,

A very Valuable Estate,

CALLED TWITTENHAM, situate in the township of Upper Derby, and county of Delaware, 7 1-2 miles from Philadelphia, and half a mile from the new Western road: containing 230 acres of excellent land, 45 of which are good watered meadow, 90 of prime woodland, and the rest arable of the first quality. There are on the premises a good two story brick house, with 4 rooms on a floor, and cellars under the whole, with a pump-well of excellent water in front; a large frame barn, stables, and other convenient buildings; a smoke-house and stone, spring-house; two good apple orchards, and one of peaches. The fields are all in clover, except those immediately under tillage, and are so laid out as to have the advantage of water in each of them, which renders it peculiarly convenient for grazing.

The situation is pleasant and healthy, and from the high cultivation of the land, the good neighbourhood, and the vicinity to the city, it is very suitable for a gentleman's country seat.

The foregoing is part of the estate of Jacob Harman, deceased, and offered for sale by
